

Dear Hiring Manager,

My name is Silje Loge, and I am currently studying front-end development at Noroff. I have a passion for creating clean, accessible, and thoughtful digital experiences. I have always been drawn to the intersection of technology and design, and I am motivated by the opportunity to build interfaces that feel intuitive, visually balanced, and enjoyable to use.

During my studies in Front-End Development, I have gained hands-on experience with HTML, CSS, JavaScript (ES6+), responsive layouts, accessibility principles, and modern design tools such as Figma. I focus on writing clear, maintainable code and translating visual ideas into functional, user-centered solutions. I enjoy refining details, improving performance, and ensuring that every element contributes to a smooth and consistent experience.

What drives me most is creating websites that are both visually appealing and purposeful. I approach each project with curiosity and a desire to learn something new, whether that means improving my workflow, exploring a new technique, or deepening my understanding of user behavior. I value clarity, simplicity, and thoughtful design — principles I bring into both my work and my collaboration with others.

I am excited to contribute to a team where I can continue to grow as a developer, take on meaningful challenges, and help create digital products that truly serve their users. Thank you for taking the time to read my application. I would love the opportunity to share more about my work and discuss how my skills and mindset can support your team.

Warm regards,
Silje Loge
